Check out the "before" picture of the building, photos of the construction project, behind-the-scenes shots of building the ARC collection, and more to come. Also remember our live webcams of the construction are here. Our growing image gallery is here; feel free to add your own tags and comments! ## Your Very Own Librarian, or They're Everywhere!

February 5, 2008

Did you know you have your very own librarian? Check it out.

Henderson Library has launched a newly redefined Library Liaison program. The new approach involves Subject Specialist Librarians working with groups of academic departments, and providing reference/research assistance, information literacy instruction, and collection development in those subject areas. Librarians have also selected various GSU entities beyond the academic departmental structure, such as student organizations and campus offices. They are acting as Library Liaisons with them as well, providing links for ongoing, two-way communication between them and the Library.

We're excited about trying out our new approach, which has had only a few minor changes since this outline was posted. The full description of the new Library Liaison roles, with photos of your friendly Subject Specialists, is

Please share your comments and ideas about what we can do for you!
